

My name is Vance Joseph and I'm the Head Coach of the Denver Broncos. My family and I are entering our 15th NFL season with five different moves from San Francisco, CA to Miami, FL. I have one of the best jobs in the entire world, but the desire to improve your status or the demand for winning requires a lot of relocation for your family. When I receive the promotion to be the Defensive Coordinator for the Miami Dolphins my wife and I decided to buy a home in South Florida. We search for many days trying to find the right home and location for our families dream home. We were really determined to find a unique property that also had privacy to enjoy the days of down time. After a long and thorough search we meet with Eduardo the builder of Paragon Homes in Plantation Estates. We knew right away that we found the builder and home for our family. The passion and expertise he displayed about the home was bar none. He treated our home like it was his own home; he took charge of the finishing details of the home by assuring my wife and I that he would find the best people to install the floors and walk-in closets we requested. When buying a home can be very stressful for a family Eduardo and his team made a very pleasant experience for Holly and I.

Sincerely,
